Bullies for satan

Offered as a tool for the more oppressed of us who are awakening to the re-emerging truth that the Puritans of the 1600's were the ones who were on the right track, not the idolized "founding fathers" of today's re-written history who had actually in fact only been elitist moles, sent in to draw us away from our Biblical ways and into their "more perfect union" of humanism, socialism, pluralism, satanism ...

This booklet therefore is dedicated to YHWH, the God of the Bible, in that everyone we love might see His truth for His glory through their salvation.

Preface

Some of us have experienced the trembling knees and the lump-in-the-throat fear of being bullied in the playground as youngsters, but does it not feel like we are under a similar situation today albeit in a much more complex form?

This presentation therefore was compiled to show that the entire global tyranny that we are facing now, is in all reality just that—a simple system of cold, lying, calculating, out of control thugs and bullies who, we might all agree, ought to be stopped and punished.

—But there’s a small hurdle to overcome first: We are out of control as well. We are allowing our overarching fear of man to do just what the bullies want us to do, which is to help them keep any and all potential Bible believers from ever seeking to correct our ways to again find favor in the One who can put an end to what these deviates are doing to us. This “conquering by fear” has largely been accomplished in how they have first cleverly seduced us over recent centuries to no longer “want to know” this hero of ours, our Creator. (...or at least not as respectfully as we did when running from Europe’s tyranny in starting this nation anyway).

Therefore, a contentedly ‘dumbed-down’ and largely ‘spoiled rotten’ nation is suddenly finding itself utterly defenseless in its willfully compliant ignorance regarding our Heavenly Father, and this disrespect of ours must be satisfactorily repented of in His eyes long before He punishes any evil bullies for us. Yet, are we American Christians learning anything? ...even at this juncture of being so brutally but justifiably ‘treated like slaves’ as we are?

In passionately seeking more effective ways to explain this criminal chaos to the thousands I have met over the years, I’ve continually struggled to hone how I delivered some of the better illustrations and analogies that have come to mind, hoping to leave no doubt as to how we have been completely lulled into a state of nationwide complacency or “mass willful ignorance” where we are dangerously displaying to all the world, a stubborn attitude of outright rebellion towards God and are thereby in all reality mocking our once protective King of kings rather than acting as the grateful and responsible ambassadors that we should be, that is, if professing to be true “believers” of His love, might, truth, wisdom, and Fatherly authority over us.

Thus we have left Him with no other choice but to allow us to suffer the consequences of our own chosen path of snubbing His system of law and justice, which we, as a nation, had begun canceling out in some very major ways even as early as the 1780’s when (already-weakening) Christians caved to the documents that legally overruled quite a few of YHWH’s commandments. This swung wide an open door for endless ‘other gods’ (or the civil, moral and religious ‘lawgivers’) we then accumulatively stood ‘before Him’ in our midst.

In knowing that many have yet to see how we could have all been deceived over the centuries, this booklet is therefore somewhat of a “best of” primer in offering some of the more thought-provoking illustrations that have proven helpful for me in explaining to newcomers the overall picture of how today’s power-hungry people have so fully enslaved a once biblically-serious nation. It is hoped that the reader may then see beyond the elite’s many intentional cloaks of illusion to the truth, just as suddenly and effectively as when Dorothy’s dog had pulled back the curtain that revealed what was really behind the smoke and mirrors of the Wizard of Oz.

Therefore, the entries that we have chosen to include in this mini eye-opener, will hopefully reach the hearts and minds of those still on the fence who, being either too nervous or too successfully distracted by the powers to be, had not, or are still not, seeing what we are seeing behind the secret doors that hide the world’s bully system of the wicked ruling elite—a system opposing the Father’s that the Bible calls “the beast”. It is hoped that by simplifying the overall picture of this global nightmare for the average reader, that the more serious few of us might be able to better inspire the much needed momentum to reform our land, thus paving the way to a renewed covenant of biblical governance with our Creator YHWH, finally bringing about the genuine truth and justice that the Puritans had hoped to achieve... once and for all!

—Dwaine

To rob a town blind

If you, the reader and I were planning to rob an entire town of innocent, industrious, prosperous people, would we walk into that town right down the middle of it's busy streets in broad daylight at high noon wearing black ski masks, black leather jackets and carrying crow bars? Of course not. That'd be a dead giveaway as to our intention, right? Instead, wouldn't we, as the wolves we more naturally might be, choose to more cleverly put on sheep's clothing in dressing more like the respectable folks of that community, perhaps even wearing nice outfits of the most pious appearance, and strolling happily into their town with a very likable demeanor, offering our hand in friendship to everyone as we go, to gain their trust first? Perhaps we might even be openly carrying Bibles and humbly seeking their permission to set up a soup kitchen for their poor and maybe offer a mild weekly Bible study to make sure that we are completely covering our true underlying plans? Would that not be more expected of the truly devious criminal mind?

Once we had developed a somewhat shiny image in this town in outwardly being seen as wonderful new "do-gooders" and glowing advocates of righteousness, only then could we begin to set in motion our long-term plan to ever-so-slowly empty their coffers and gradually make their wealth our wealth, where once we were more readily trusted, we might here and there begin to slip out of our humble abodes under the cover of night and methodically, bit by bit, drain the town of it's many abundant stockpiles. We'd certainly start off small but with complete stealth, where one of us might, say, quietly steal just a few of the items from the local Jewelry store (that we could fence in another town), the other of us might see what could be had from the grocer's night-time change box, ourselves ever-so gradually growing in respect, status and power daily, thus increasing our undetected "empire" as the townsfolk would be completely oblivious as to our true (- ahem -) 'occupation'.

Then every morning after each heist (in pretending to have somehow “heard the news”) you might even sympathetically offer to pray for them in their loss or perhaps even take token care packages to some of the poor or middle class folks who had lost major treasures, etc, always of course only giving out much less than you are pulling in on the heist, but appearing to be so overly generous that they would never suspect you in a couple thousand years (specific pun on time intended).

Soon you might even take on ‘partners’ in those you may have found to be similarly ‘corruptible’ and/or who had begun to see through your scheme, where you were forced to offer them a tiny but worthwhile cut of the take if they would ‘contract’ with you in “growing your ministry (criminal enterprise)”. You might even find ways to legally justify your activities to some degree in having also perhaps helped the town write “better laws”, doing so to also ease the consciences of those you are ‘employing’, utilizing well thought out tactics that would also conveniently diminish that town’s then slowly disappearing original law system, of which you would also be working very hard to distract the townsfolk from which would be their “Book of the Law” or God’s genuine Bible.

Should this enterprise get so large that many in your area might begin to wonder what is up, it would also be wise to hire some actors to stage a distracting but convincing puppet show in the center of town, where it would serve as an ongoing soap opera-styled struggle between, say, ‘the reds and the blues’ or ‘the donkeys and the elephants’ where the unsuspecting public would zealously side with whichever side of these play-actors in their town (or state or nation by that point) might seem to be the most trustworthy. These new “representatives” would then become masterful decoys as either new heroes of justice for some groups on the one side, or the new villains of evil on the other. New social problems would then also be artificially created and/or existing minor issues would be dramatically blown out of proportion by an also created town crier (news media) who would make sure that all are being well hyped towards the distractions (and entertainments) of the week rather than the real issues, therein always sending the townsfolk’s eyes and ears to the new “politicians” for the solutions to what are often non-problems, rather than to God and His Bible, a system that long ago used to much more simply resolve such issues for them.

Some folks would find one side of this created illusion of opposing heroes to be their voice of hope for the way those “problem solvers” are promoting their views on some issues, while either opposing side could be conveniently seen as the bad guys responsible for the now increasing problems in your neighborhood. There might also be expansion plans with opportunities for free agents that might not want to directly work within the labeled structure of the ongoing two-party mainstream conflict, and they then might be given a commission to instead act as a third or so-called “independent” problem solver, to further help distract the slightly wiser ones who now know that something smells fishy around the bigger two-party stage. Other free agents might also elect to be what this criminal system might call “controlled opposition” leaders, where these agents would be small time heroes for whatever grass roots groups might spring up that might also be inclined to otherwise see through your smoke and mirrors, and the infiltration opportunities for such traitorous townfolk would be endless, as the whole system would grow very nicely as the bulk of the townfolk become more and more drawn away from their original, previously successful law system that had once protected them from all of these cancerous infections.

This would be a most diabolical plan, a plan in which the world’s criminally-minded would find its zenith of mastery, as it would surely take the people away from thinking along the lines of the true reality of our existence, where the true battle is between God’s righteousness and satan’s evils, and where eventually over a few generations or so their cover would be this common but illusionary “neutral zone” keeping the peasants in a perpetual state of humanist idolatry, where the criminally inclined could then run unhindered, creating whatever additional laws they then would ever need, to increasingly enslave and brutalize the many layers of people below them that they have deceived. Only the super elite at the top would know what was really going on. They would have truly succeeded in completely re-programming the minds of the world as if this new realm was the true governance realm, as if the whole Spiritual realm of righteousness under the authority of the God that Created us (YHWH) had only been a long mythical period from man's past. Or at least this was the plan. But some of us know the true ending, having read and believed the earlier Book version of this story.

All of the afore mentioned things and more, are just what the global criminal system has basically been incrementally doing to us for many centuries. The initial evil inspiration for this global conspiracy began as far back as the Tower of Babel, and through the experimental stages of Babylon, Assyria, and a few other pre-Egyptian attempts, prospective slave-masters would (back then) usually just quickly assemble themselves into large elitist groups of power before the masses figured out what was forming around them and simply run these earlier "bully empires" whenever they were ready using a simple but openly powerful and intimidating show of force. But the problem for them was, that over time they would almost always inevitably find that once their 'slaves' reached certain tolerance limits, things like automatic underground communication skills would often kick-in, along with a renewed respect for truth, where the wiser captives would, at one point or another, ultimately call upon their true hero, the God of the Bible. It would be then that this God, in His mercy, would not just forgive any properly repenting society of their previous sins, but then also come to their rescue, often pummeling the oppressing tyrant to absolute smithereens.

As time went on, both satan and his elite got tired of being pummeled to smithereens and sought ways to hide their cabal 'families' behind puppet governments with leaders that would not only serve as phony "representatives for the people" (thereby shielding themselves from an angry peasantry) but would also as we've just shown, seduce the masses into a sinful state of idolatry against their God under any number of camouflaged alternate, unbiblical law systems (creating false gods and/or false religions), thus 'disarming the people' by removing the peasant's greatest weapon:

...their all-powerful protective God.

As many differing geographic/historic cabals tried their own variations of this same basic scheme to infinitely distract the peasants from again trusting in this certain troublesome God, countless imitation gods and religions were then set up as decoy religions, not unlike what we might see in today's "government accredited religions", Vatican blessed, or 501c3-approved religions, etc. The true purpose of course has always been to distract the multitudes from the real McCoy (some succeeding better than others), with all of these now-surfacing ungodly slave masters anxious to forever remove this pesky God from their slaves' memory once and for all, so that they'd never have to worry about ever being pummeled again.

And it never takes long till such opportunists always think, "Why stop at just a town or nation now? Why not rob and pillage the whole world?" So, when tracing this secret society plan of world conquest to its roots, it does yes, seem to have begun with the tower of Babel and their respect for the selfish ways of Nimrod. These global control freaks want nothing else but to be elevated as gods, hindered only by this one particular annoying God that for some reason protects all the lowly "peons" who love and obey Him and His simple yet brilliant system of law and justice.

In the following chapters, we'll then discuss some of the other hurdles that these satanists have worked around to get us where they have gotten us today, and how we are foolishly and thereby even fatally helping them by allowing our own fears and willful ignorance to be our own chains around us. We have been deceived and conditioned in an almost infinite variety of ways into believing that the God of the Bible had been a myth all along and that such a God can never help us anyway, where frustrated, we go back to our puppet shows and televisions, wondering why we can't seem to fix this. They have taken advantage of our own wicked willful ignorance, to then self-perpetuate our own demise by teaching us to be self-replicating, "government god-admiring" automatons. We have thereby become our own most pathetic, self-captured slaves and mid-level slave masters, with even our own state-controlled churches becoming obedient executioners of our own Savior for them, just as they had also successfully gotten the high priests scribes and Pharisees in their previous empire to convince the similarly-fooled multitudes to crucify Christ.

The underlying criminal scheme of total world-wide control is nothing new

Therefore, just as it was in the Messiah's time, there are a few of us with healthy, contented dispositions who enjoy living a life of the utmost harmony in cooperation with his fellow man, while at the same time there are those among us who, as Christ said, are "sick" and thereby rebel against the wholesome understandable rules of a godly conscience that would otherwise direct a compassionate heart towards the good of one's neighbor. These rebels are then those who also prefer to attain the pleasures that they want in life by hurting others and/or by selfishly only securing their own little bubble of a world, having little if any concern for others. These people seem to thrive on the challenge of pushing the envelope further and further in wrongfully gaining all of their desired magnificence by either forcefully, deceptively, or even by just finding self-justified, 'loop-hole'-validated ways of bypassing (or over-ruling) their better consciences to then cause others to hand over their own hard-earned comforts to them.

Satan, being the first one of these conscience-starved "opportunists", wanted nothing more but to have all of the world's greatest honor and glory for himself without having to earn such a position of respect. I would venture a guess that he never thought for one moment about being a true contributor to any part of the Creator's society. It's not much different with today's elitist bullies, where many of the elite that we see all around us in positions of power that are similarly contributing to the further corruptions in our world, then make perfect understudies and crony assistants for satan, who himself is only able to tempt such like-minded people to do the things that will help his plan because he can't physically "force" man to do evil things. Satan is thereby left to use whatever devices he can conjure up to then entice as many corruptible men and women that he can find to do his bullying and distracting for him, and/or at least intimidate them to stay out of his way, keep their mouths shut and not squeal on him and his bullies, etc. —and there are countless folks helping and appeasing satan in our time whether they know it or not (or more truthfully perhaps...) whether they'll admit it or not.

So for all those who work directly or indirectly for satan in his overall cause to subdue mankind, its all about wanting all the glories in one's life without going through the nuisances of having to work for, achieve, or contribute to these things with your own blood sweat and tears, especially when you could somehow force or coerce others to do everything for you.

Today's global elite who make up the people behind the "New World Order", the Illuminati, and other interconnected "secret society" groups, are somewhat like those that we would automatically consider to clearly be on the dark side of the moral fence when it comes to the difference between "the givers and the takers", but to a far more devious level. These greedy elite have become absolute masters of the 'take' side, always having been willing to do 'whatever it takes' to receive their cut of the booty in their wickedly-devised system. Again, this mindset has been in the hearts of the evil, growing in incremental steps of trial and error since the times of the tower of Babel, just shortly after the days of Noah, where it even now seems that a similar global criminal enterprise had been corrupting the world in the pre-flood days as well.

The difficulty of flipping a picture puzzle over

I think it wise at this point to add a thought to keep us from wanting to run back to any of the false ‘myths’ that we’ve been conditioned to believe in all of our lives, where some of us might start questioning or doubting the several thoughts I’ve already presented here. Please remember, that I am hoping to help turn your entire “world view” right-side-up again for you, and everything that you have ever before trusted to be ‘right’ is going to at least be challenged if it does not outright cause you to say to yourself, “NO! IT CAN’T BE!!!” But yes, once we turn enough of the scary puzzle pieces over for you, things will start to come into focus in ways not much different than finding a wonderful bright morning rainbow after a dark night of hurricane-force thunderstorms... because the Creator of the Universe is still in charge and ready to stand as the ultimate Lawgiver and Judge for those that trusted on Him.

So as some of us might have experienced at one time or another in our lives, it is a tricky task trying to flip over a completed jigsaw puzzle—especially the challenging ones with what seemed like zillions of pieces that made our eyes cross-eyed as we’d hover over them. Some folks, having successfully assembled their most beautiful picture puzzle on their dining room table, have afterwards thought about how nice it might look on the wall or perhaps even in a custom made frame, etc, and they then soon discover that the many barely-connected pieces don’t cooperate with such an idea very readily. Some think it through that, if they can glue a big piece of poster paper to the back, they can achieve keeping this great work in one piece, but again, they have to first flip it over to get to that point. So various feats of mild engineering step in for those who are determined to make this happen. Ever been there?

What we are doing here is similarly daunting. The world that is waiting for us to reclaim it is absolutely beautiful when one sees the correct side of the picture puzzle of the world, but we have been shown the other cold, bland, grey fantasy ‘matrix’ side of that puzzle all of our lives, where many of us are just now only starting to see the true side that we are hearing about from so many “old fashioned” or non-mainstream sources.

This writing is also therefore largely geared to help reach the hearts and minds of the many we yet know who’d otherwise prefer being forever sheltered from this overall picture, being terrified that it seems far too complex and scary for them, preferring to stay in their less-fearful government fantasy land, hoping to forever avoid responsibly thinking about the fact that something truly is... very seriously wrong in our world.

What some of us might then find less frightening to do in such cases, is to systematically remove all of the pieces from the propaganda-created world one by one, re-study them, and reassemble them ‘truth side up’, where once a cluster of them begin to take shape the right way, we can then start to see the overall picture in our minds, and this while a good number of the pieces are still yet to be corrected. This is an effective approach to such a task, especially for those of us who want the entire picture to be unmistakable to us, to then be at peace that we are headed in all the right directions, solution-wise as well.

For the average individual, they usually want to first hear the five minute sound bites that give them the overall picture that they are supposed to be putting together in their minds—somewhat like how we might cheat and look at the front cover of the box that the picture puzzle came in, and that’s what those of us who have studied this for decades are going to try and do for the newcomer here—show you how the overall picture is supposed to look (and how simple it really is!) so that every time you then see a new piece come your way you will have a pretty good idea of how that piece fits in. You can then better envision the big picture yourself having gained a more accurate understanding of the overall puzzle, based on what we’ve learned here.

So from here on out we will try to turn over a few more of the important puzzle pieces, while continuing to describe what the overall picture looks like based on these more important parts that are often hard to see. Keep in mind that the elite have worked very hard over the last few hundred years, going to great lengths to make sure that you can't see these more important pieces or "clues" that would otherwise easily point to 'them' as the bad guys in your life, make sense?

And just like any other jigsaw puzzle, it is always natural to want to seek out and start with corner pieces or "cornerstones" and then perhaps the edge pieces we might find, and build from there, right? And although it was certainly not one of the first upside-down pieces they had devised for us, one of the most important "corner pieces" that had been turned upside down on us in this global picture was their deviously-inverted religious alternative to God having created us all, which was their (thankfully now fast-crumbling) theory of Darwinian evolution. For many decades since the mid-1800's, this falsely-backed "theory" had dealt a major blow to unprepared Christians who were unaware of the many literal lies that were being peddled under the guise of "science that was falsely so-called" (see 1 Timothy 6:20). It attacked a six-day creation in many novice Christian minds, seriously diminishing one's faith in the rest of that Bible, where few afterwards would then trust other areas of the Bible in solving the rest of the global puzzle.

It makes perfect sense to rationalize then, that when not having the more serious, bigger pieces right-side-up and in place in your puzzle, it will be a lot harder to complete and a lot harder just to see the proper ties to any of the other neighboring pieces, let alone see the overall big picture my friends.

Other important key pieces might be the inverted piece that the wicked want you to see replacing God's theology with satan's psychology which, once the differences are made clear, are like night and day. Or perhaps we might go to the upside down puzzle piece that hides God's true Bible with their many post-1800's watered-down versions that have been re-written to intentionally distract and counter the Bible's real message. In essence, all the pieces of the puzzle eventually interconnect, and have likewise been turned upside-down on us, such as: All political issues, almost all social guidance programs and systems, the entire law and justice system, the now false debt-based economic network, all schools and higher levels of academia, all business and trading networks, the many false health organizations, and even most agricultural control systems (and on and on, as they leave nary a stone unturned).

This includes many of the subtle but intentionally complex and detailed “conditioning systems” that the elite have fed the world to keep the masses either fully mind-controlled, or (for the less gullible) at least largely distracted from seeing the proper side of as the examples we’ve just mentioned. These carefully designed programs then often have an infinitely amazing array of ulterior-motivated sub-programs, self help clinics, training schools, cyber study courses, and even outright traps that have been set to ensnare everyone from the world’s most gullible to the most accomplished intellectuals. These many “thought distraction” mechanisms then purposefully send folks far and away from any biblical solutions and into endless and thereby hopeless side-roads that only artificially pacify the oppressed. In fact, they act as a bullfighter’s red cape, where we are constantly being taunted to run to the red cape here, and then there, etc, etc, never getting a real run at the one devilishly waving the cape (or to any real issues, any true escape door from the arena, etc). These institutions of distraction include:

- Television (hands down the greatest tool for mass mind control),
- Big-box radio, newspaper, and other corporate-sized media,
- The entire public education system (k through ivy colleges),
- The medical information network [world health organization],
- All military and their many “security reasons” coverups,
- And so on and so forth (as everything is controlled and propagandized except what is being spread by the little guy).

Basically, everything under the sun has been turned totally upside down on us, and what details they may have somehow missed, trust me, they are desperately working on, knowing that we are now “on to them” in fast-growing numbers.

How about what we might call a large corner piece of our puzzle in that it pertains to the argument over whether there is but one Deity that is in charge who can take us to an eternal reward, versus the globalist view that there are many religions, that in an “ecumenical” fashion (as they have affectionately called it), can also somehow get us there? Is not Yeshua (Jesus) the only way to the Father? How can “ecumenism” (a unity of all religions who deny the authority of Yeshua/Christ) be in any way able to do anything but further anger the One true God of the Bible, thereby only more greatly diminishing our chances of having Him return to our side for a rescue from these bullies? See their objective? So again, if we don’t have the serious parts of this worldly puzzle in place, we’ll never be able to fit any of the less critical “right-side-up” pieces in with the major ones that are yet still upside down, agreed?

The Bible is laid out to inspire deep thought as well (being non alphabetical, not in topical arrangements of any kind, etc), where it challenges us wisdom seekers to work our way up the ladder of knowledge, allowing us to prioritize riddle ‘pieces’ on our own where the first initial clues to gaining ‘cutting edge’, ‘above-carnal’ or ‘superhuman’ wisdom from the Father is easily found in verses (that the ‘mainstream church’ often seems to ignore by the way) that, when lined up in a logical chain, make perfect sense even when considering just a few of these simple verses, such as:

1. We must be seeking the truth:

“But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him.” —Hebrews 11:6

2. The Holy Spirit is then given as a portal to greater truth:

“Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth:” —John 16:13

3. To continue advancing in this truth, we must “amend our lives” to what we have already learned to be true (meaning we have to be obeying the parts we have already learned):

“And we are his witnesses of these things; and so is also the Holy Ghost, whom God hath given to them that obey him.” —Acts 5:32

4. And once your life begins to steadily adapt to this cleaner, fresher way of truth, you will gradually no longer fear the evils of tyrannical man anymore as well, as more clues, helps, and fear-canceling realities will proportionally be sent your way as you advance in Father's "spiritual school":

"Whom shall he teach knowledge? and whom shall he make to understand doctrine? them that are weaned from the milk, and drawn from the breasts. For precept must be upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line; here a little, and there a little:" —Isaiah 28:9-10

Again, we must start with the first building blocks. Who is the Creator (evolution vs. creation)? Once we've realistically established that evolution is a lie, we then must decide if such a Creator is truly in authority over His Creation, and... has He sent instructions to help those like ourselves who are seeking to do things according to the way it was designed? Etc, etc.

I hope that we've begun to not only show how corrected puzzle pieces can slowly start turning the overall picture right-side-up for us, but also how it can even take our fears away as well, where the truth doesn't just renew one's faith in God, but it also simultaneously removes the chains and shackles of fear that had been previously marking us as satan's property in this terrorism-based "beast" system. (yes, these bullies are the real terrorists!)

To gain truth then is to gain courage, which is not unlike how Dorothy and her friends stood with heroically renewed boldness when seeing the real wizard of Oz and his weasely motives, as they suddenly understood the truth of what they were up against:

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." —John 8:32

Let's now look at one of these key deceptions to better show how they manipulate us into these traps...

Chapter 4

The global powers helped to create (and thereby today desperately promote) their “theory” of Darwinian evolution

So now that we can better see why they would lie to us about everything from 9-11 to the easter bunny, does it not make more sense now, why evolution was also helped along and even intentionally commissioned by these very same satanists in the hopes of better enslaving us? Further reason for the invention of evolution was quite simply because these global control freaks are fully aware that “people who know and trust their Bibles don't make very good slaves” (and for several reasons). So they have been trying to discredit the Bible's content for centuries.

In fact people who know their Bibles, are actually the elitist's biggest worry on earth as they truly do fear the biblically serious who can genuinely call upon the God of the Bible to help them, as they themselves know the true history of this “help”, having themselves worked hard to rewrite and hide this from you, the ‘peasant’. Please then keep this in mind during the rest of our presentation, where a growing number of scientists world-wide are now coming together in amazing numbers that Darwinian evolution is completely impossible, whereupon our satanic ruling class is shielding all of this breaking information from you, even resorting to using outright lies in their now state-controlled schoolbooks and media circles, frantically hoping to keep a lid on these discoveries.

For those who are still skeptical in this area, please know that our website and many others are now publishing volumes of exploding scientific evidences that without doubt, shows the reality of a young earth (approx. 6,000 years), thus restoring our faith that the Bible has truly had an unbroken track record of credibility all along. But let's get to the rest of the illustrations where it will become even more so apparent why they don't want you to know about there being a true biblical creation...

The art of deception in keeping slaves from their God, is the bullies' key weapon.

As any peasantry's underground system of communications naturally grew out of the necessity of increasing tyranny, and the Babylonians, Assyrians and other notable pursuers of world domination were finding that they were often done-in (indirectly) by their slaves' resourceful use of always being able to find ways to re-educate themselves to the truth of the conditions around them, it amplified the need for greater stealth and secrecy among those who were desperately trying to pull off "the world's greatest sweat equity heist". Each attempt at the larger tyrannies had always eventually failed, in that, as any society would become more and more enslaved, word would often eventually get through the walls of even the best-devised global empires about this 'God' that would "set free" those who trusted in Him. This, largely coming from those people who had the longest-running track record with this God as well, being the Hebrew bloodline.

Even the tiniest remnants of these Scripture-serious people had been an endless thorn in the side of just about every major attempt at global tyranny that had ever surfaced, as only this particular God was the one that had always (one way or another) eventually done at least some level of serious damage to every disrespecting empire that tried to enslave the world.

The more experienced families of thieves recognized this dilemma, thereby making the secrecy of their conspiracy an absolute uncompromising staple of their strategy. And just as the definition of such a society itself would imply, any public notion of such a society to then even exist, would itself then fast be mockingly but emphatically 'pretended away', etc, where any such 'conspiracy theorists' would be mercilessly humiliated for even thinking such lunacy. —sound familiar? This then got public focus off of them and back onto the "wierdos" who were spreading such "fairy tales of conspiracy" and "causing strife among the land". Thus, the ministry of propaganda was born.

Satan now had large pieces of his strategy in place that could achieve his goals so long as he kept all his ‘employees’ happy in their favorite sins, where his higher ups could now cast away their night-time ski masks, black leather jackets and crow bars, enjoying “executive perks”, while apprentice thugs (Jesuits, etc.) in strategically expanding church ‘fronts’ and key political offices would largely go unpunished for pedophilia, homosexuality, ?, etc, so long as they also “did their jobs”. (Consider the famous Nuremberg trials quote of one under Hitler, “I was only doing my job”. Which master did he serve?)

Keeping these secret societies “secret” however, was not such an easy task for the top brass, unless they themselves were seen as so ruthless and “godlike” (to those foolish enough to get involved), that not one soul would then ever dare to reveal what was really going on under the cloak of their “religion”, lest such underlings come to some fate worse than death itself, etc. And this is of course, how today’s tyranny thrives as well—through not just the evils of deception, but also with the (often imaginary) terrifying enforcement muscle that comes of intimidation, and fear.

Yet, it seems portions of these tactics were in place with these elite perhaps even going back to the Egyptian dynasties, where such in-bred (albeit culturally unfaithful) ‘families’ were yet few and somewhat better hidden in such smaller circle disguises. In due time however, they would be forced to learn to re-group themselves under new disguises after setbacks like the miraculous Exodus from Egypt, where many of the neighboring powers had then seen Egypt as having lost their criminal world “clout” when this same historically famed God had again humiliated even a nation of such established slavery as Egypt had been respected for, which caused any other up-and-coming criminal families to take strong notice of this “tyrant-pummeling God” again as well.

But defeat and disgrace came nonetheless, and even for the last of that era’s great open slave states like Egypt as well (a society that it seems also had a similar ‘shadow’ government not unlike that of our own now-understood U.S. ‘shadow’ government), where the Babylonian/Kabbalist/Egyptian ‘underground’ (after the plagues and wrath had shamed them) seems to have moved their [business] to the European stage where although the costumes and the pagan god names had to be adjusted somewhat (in order to be seen as new empires using catchy new lordship titles such as “Caesars” and then “Popes”), the Roman civil law system was still however, a nice new cloak for those who were already well-practiced in secretly running a slave state right under the noses of its peasantry. Calling corrupt systems like the Roman Empire’s morphing attempt at world enslavement a “republic” was a slick move on the part of satan, but even this system had its shortcomings, when again, the Caesars (as the Pharaohs had done before them being just puppets for their secret society bosses) had again gone too far and had again daringly attempted to keep their Hebrew slaves from a genuine worship of their God where this time Rome entirely changed the calendar hoping to do so. This calendar change took place in 45 B.C. forcing YHWH’s faithful to make life-teetering choices, and guess who showed up shortly afterwards? That’s right, the Father sent His only begotten Son to similarly do as Moses had done with Egypt (which is analogous to what is being offered now), which was to draw out only those who would again loyally follow and worship the Father’s system of law and justice.

It didn’t take long till the various tribes of faithful nonconforming Hebrews and followers of Christ were greatly persecuted by Caesar, as the world’s original biblical calendar was not just changed, but legally outlawed (council of Nicea, 325 A.D.), historically re-written, and fully swept under the rug during Rome’s long ‘dark ages’ rule.

For centuries, the biblically-faithful that defied this growing Roman oppression were viciously hunted down and slaughtered, and first by Rome, then by Rome’s inventively created Mohammedans (and others) who did Rome’s “dirty work”. Rome also put herself through other changes hoping to gain a more deceptive control of the masses under various distractions, not bettering her nature of course, but her false facade only, even synthetically conquering herself in order to replace an unaccepted state Pontifex Maximus with a shiny new religious Pontifex Maximus that Bible-based peasants would hopefully better accept, as if there was now a “vicar of Christ” who could (with God’s authorization somehow) harmonize all of the world’s religions into one big happy family [of enslaved peasants].

Chapter 6

The playpen analogy

Let's stop at this point and simply consider the following as just a helpful way of getting a fresh new overall view of things:

Imagine that our Heavenly Father, rather than having placed the earth, sun, moon, stars, planets, and other heavenly bodies in the vastness of deep dark space, would have instead placed just one huge playpen in the middle of this now empty infinite area, and had filled this massive playpen with some colorful Fisher Price-style plastic toys in one corner, and a Bible opened for all to read in the opposing corner. Now, this playpen is so huge that you can't see from one end to the other. We might even perhaps imagine it being as large as one of today's average towns—a really big playpen.

Father then brings an armful of little sleeping babies in diapers and gently places them in the middle of the mat in the playpen and quietly backs off into the darkness to then watch them awaken and react to their world.

The children then one by one wake up, and in innocent ways begin wondering what their life is all about, why they are there, etc, but being too immature for such depth of thought just yet, merely begin to physically explore their world. One sees some color off in the distance and wanders over to investigate, gleefully finding the toys piled up in the corner, where then eventually all the others hear the excitement and also rush over to help themselves to these toys.

But there's an interesting test there: there are about a thousand babies and about 500 plastic toys. What is going to happen? That's right, they're going to start fighting. And what will take place is a "king of the mountain" type of scenario, where the stronger ones will successfully gain a toy or two here or there, and some may even hoard several of these toys clutched in their arms, but will then be so busy fighting off the others who also want a chance to play with the toys that they never get a chance to play with their tightly held treasures themselves. This goes on for a long time, getting worse and worse as things progress, where the diapers don't get changed, the fighting gets nasty, and the whole pile is beginning to look like what is happening on planet earth right now—a whole lot of people fighting over the immature things in life, not even mature enough to know why they are fighting over them.

Given time, one little boy realizes that he is not likely to be one of the stronger children that will work his way to enjoying any of the toys, and with a more mature attitude born of both a compassion for those who seem to want the toys more than he does, and a sadness he finds in the reality of this scenario, crawls around further contemplating what this life is all about. He wonders who he is, where he came from, why he is there, and many other questions that are increasingly puzzling him. In his wandering he starts to cry that there must be a better life than this. Just then he sees something off in the distance. He crawls over to this new curiosity and plops down in front of it trying to establish if it's a toy, something to eat, or what, and when it doesn't taste very good, nor shine with exciting colors like the toys in the other corner of the playpen he then just sits back frustrated again and says, "Boy, I really wish I knew what that was. I wish it could tell me what this life was all about and why we are all here." Just then the Father comes out of the darkness where he could be seen just over the boy's little corner of the playpen, looks down with a smile and says, "Hi."

The little boy looks up somewhat startled and says, "Who are you?"

"I'm your daddy, and that thing in front of you is a Bible. It's a book that will tell you all about me if you continue to want to know all of the deeper things that the other kids don't seem to want to know. And if you study it real hard and find that you like the better life that it is explaining can be found by those like yourself who do want such a better life, I will come back for you someday and take you away from this unhappy playpen to a place where everyone can live and learn amazing things in perfect happiness for all eternity, and... with all of the toys that could ever be imagined so nobody would ever have to fight.”

“Wow!”, said the boy, “When can we go?”

“Not now, you have to learn to read and understand what’s in that book and make sure that you truly want the life that it talks about first, sound fair?”

“Yes, but when will that be?”

“Someday when you have studied enough. For now I have to go, and leave you to study. But I will come back someday when you have disciplined your life to adapt to that Book’s wisdom so I can then rightfully take you with me.”

“Oh, please don’t go!” the boy cried with a tear in his eye, “I’m all alone because I won’t fight in the toy pile like the others!”

“I have to go”, said the Father, “but know that I love you, and know that I will be back to get you someday when you have comfortably matured and have embraced what that Book says about how we must learn to love one another, okay?”

“Okay”, said the boy, trying his best to be seen as hopeful in holding back further tears, while submissively knowing deep down that this has to be if he is to someday escape his world of growing wickedness.

The Father then backs off quietly out of sight to then continue to observe the playpen from a distance, and the boy looks down to discover that he was now able to read the words in this new book in front of him and says, “Wow! I know what this thing is saying to me now! This is much more exciting than fighting over the toys!”

He then studied for days and days, doing so until he got so excited that he could no longer hold it in. He then hurried over to the other corner of the playpen to try and tell the other children, but few would even come out of the toy pile to listen.

The boy was completely surprised and disappointed in them, but out of love never gave up going back and forth, hoping to learn all he could, especially of course how he might better reach those who still thought that their toys were the real goals in life.

A long time had passed, and one day the Father decided that it was time to come and separate those who had matured from those who hadn't, and he chose a time that they would not be expecting His return where the entire playpen was fast asleep in a nap, and he looked down in the corner where the Bible had been placed, and there was the boy with about five more friends who had all fallen asleep reading the Bible with him. The Father gently reached down and picked them all up, ever so tenderly placing them in His arm, took up the Bible as well, and then with a tear in His eye, had to pull the trap door lever on the yet selfish children that hadn't paid any attention to the warnings of the ones who had studied and matured.

Is this not an easy way to see that the Bible is simply given to teach us to grow out of the less important things in life where we might mature well above our stingy, childish ways and rise to greater levels of love for one another?

As the world around us pathetically fights tooth and nail for every Fisher-Price obsession (that they can't seem to grow out of), a few of us are taking Father's advice to yes, rise above the bullies' contagious "me, me, me" attitude, ourselves hoping to never again contribute to that atmosphere of "he who dies with the most toys wins". We are now instead embracing a better path, learning rather to work in harmony with our consciences through the Father's wholesome ways which are the only ways towards finding true peace among men. Its also refreshing to be completely set free from the nagging guilt that came from having previously been just a tiny part of that immature world.

How about the rest of us? Do our fruits promote God's ways of maturity? ...or the bullies' make-believe toyland?

Chapter 7

Lap dogs for satan and his bullies

Now here is where it gets a little tricky trying to deliver this without offending folks, as these bullies could not have succeeded in what they have done to us without the help of their many lap dogs which are those folks who fearfully but dutifully obey the bullies' system rather than God's. These are those who are bowing down to the bullies' direct or indirect message that if we aren't going to be serious "members in good standing" of their super wicked friends in any way, that we should then shut up and not make any waves, whereas on the other hand the Father says to "go ye out unto all the world preaching the gospel unto every creature" (Mark 16:15). There are only two messages in the real world, or just two entities, two jurisdictions, two kingdoms. No neutral ground. You either support one kingdom or the other. This is what is meant by the parable of Christ when He said, "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and render unto God the things that are God's" (Matt. 22:21). He was not teaching us to "split" loyalties, but putting us on the spot to "choose ye this day whom ye will serve" (Joshua 24:15).

Which side have we been serving? In other words, "Which side of the playpen have we been on?" Have we been too frightened and/or pre-occupied (willfully ignorant) ourselves to help those who are studying and promoting the ways of the Father? Or have we truly been seeking the truth and passionately helping to then spread that truth according to the Word of God?

Each one of us will be judged by Him that created us, and He also says that we shall be judged according to His Word (His Bible) and the instructions He left for us in its pages. The Bible instructs us to "preach the kingdom of God". Christ himself said those words in several passages such as Luke 9:6. We are to preach (encourage people to follow the guidelines of) a kingdom (government) of God's design, whereby He can then provide for us and protect us from such thugs.

If we are not even trying to preach the “good news” in announcing to the world that the Father and His law system can save us, should we, with such a lack of faith, then expect the Father to protect us from these people? (...and either individually or as a nation?)

Complacency is just as bad in God’s eyes as sticking up for the wicked in one’s society, as the wicked take our lack of resistance to their evils as a mandate or even as a rolled out red carpet to then continue in their plans. Here’s a little ode I had written that’s been printed on some of our literature for the past twelve years or so:

Silence in defense of good,
In an evil town square crowd...
Is a vote for wretched neighborhoods,
As the wicked hear him loud.

The Bible therefore tells us to:

“Deal courageously and YHWH shall be with the good.” —II Chronicles 19:11

We must also remember that the Bible warns that those who are fearful of man in these end days will be cast into the pits of hell (fear of man is the opposite of a faith in God):

But the fearful, and unbelieving ... shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death. —Revelation 21:8

We are to “Speak boldly” as ambassadors for God’s kingdom:

And for me, that utterance may be given unto me, that I may open my mouth boldly, to make known the mystery of the gospel, For which I am an ambassador in bonds: that therein I may speak boldly, as I ought to speak. —Ephesians 6:19-20

Is it not our duty therefore, to then have enough faith to be brave ambassadors, endorsing the law system of YHWH? ... or are we to remain silent lapdogs for the ever-worsening criminal beast system due to fear? Again: there’s only two choices.

A Bible believer's stewardship duties

When you really think it through then, the Bible was given to us as a giant lesson book on how to get along with one another, including and most especially how to get along and not get into trouble with Him that created us. It was written to be a wonderful guide in learning how to interact with one another, compiled by Him that knew everything about us including the depths of our hearts in ways that even we ourselves can't fathom.

So again, we are given the Bible with that overall message of instruction (the "great commission"), to "go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature", Where saying it another way, we are to spread God's instruction on how to live our lives alongside one another. The word 'gospel' (Strong's Greek dictionary numbers G2097 & G2098) means "to announce good news" or "good message". The good news is that if we follow the Father's rules and examples on how to get along, we can avoid all of the pain we are causing ourselves by trying to otherwise do things our own way. In other words, it might be said, "Go explain to one another the good news that if all of you repent and follow the simple rules I gave you, we can all get along just fine, and... forever!"

The most loving thing we can do for our Creator and one another therefore, is to help spread, endorse, contribute our efforts to, etc, this perfect system of "how to get along with one another" (biblical governance) to everyone we meet, especially with those that might be clearly having difficulty trying to live their lives outside this simple set of rules. We are to be good stewards (upkeepers) of this system, preaching the kingdom of YHWH (God's societal government) while being living examples of it's pages at the same time, even when it might bring uncomfortable moments for us, thus being "living sacrifices" for those we love all around us.

From the 1828 Webster's dictionary on "steward":

"In Scripture and theology, a minister of Christ, whose duty is to dispense the provisions of the gospel, to preach its doctrines and administer its ordinances [laws]."

Chapter 9

Why preach “the kingdom of heaven”?

I therefore often beg people to reflect with me concerning what is found in the Bible, and my approach has a passion and level of encouragement that sometimes annoys sinners when they discover that I don't easily want to just drop the subject.

But Why do I push this message so relentlessly?

Because it all boils down to this:

The Bible was graciously given to us to teach us how to peacefully get along with our Creator and our neighbors. It is a rare person today who wants to take the time and effort to seriously study that Book to then use it for this nobly intended purpose, as the world then instead prefers to produce its own infinitely conflicting set of rules, then scratch their heads wondering why nobody can seem to get along.

It is then that I imagine the Father on judgment day addressing all of mankind, be they rich, poor, great, small, saved, unsaved, etc., as they all stand waiting for a statement from this holy God when, after six thousand years or so of letting us make a complete mess of things he then simply says: “See, I told you that you couldn't govern yourselves without me.”

It seems inevitable that in every soul who wants to lay out the rules for mankind (be they controversially interpreted laws of the Father, or altogether separately written laws of man), there is always a tendency in each man to want to write those rules with granted leniency towards his own sins of choice, which then always inevitably ends up splitting people into factions in any society, often later even bringing bloodshed to the playpen. The Father knew He had to write the rules for us, as there is not one man on the planet that would be able to write unbiased laws that the rest of mankind would then be able to agree to, especially knowing that one of their own has written the rules.

With the Father having written the rulebook, there can be no bickering among men as to which man may have quietly had his sneaky hand in the cookie jar of law, where the fairness of an “outsider” (an immortal God) delivering our law and justice system, then makes for a much more even playing field for all men to then feel “created equal” as far as the law goes.

In my observations over the years, I can see unsaved man in his struggles throughout history, endlessly trying to find that elusive society of perfect happiness. He never finds it on his own. We have also been bully-conditioned to assume that “government” should be some sort of secular institute, kept distant from the law of God. This was a huge but effective step in taking us out of the realm of understanding that the Bible had all along been the “Book of the Law” for the Hebrews and other earlier societies such as the Puritans. The Bible had literally been their governing book of laws, statues and judgments, where a ‘secular’ government was only lustfully desired by those who secretly wanted to become either minor or major outlaws to such a biblical form of governance, wanting to be rid of the rules that hindered them from “being evil” in their own sins of choice. So keep in mind that “government” as a word in and of itself, has become a greatly misunderstood term in our world today due to the multitudes who have been taught to shudder with fear should they hear the slightest talk about a world under a biblical “theocracy”, which only quickly distracts every ear from the truth whereupon the Bible had itself always better kept mankind not only in harmony with himself, but also securely in the graces of Him who protected us from even the greatest nations who would even remotely challenge this way of life.

When we then “preach the kingdom of God”, we are then saying to our entire world of neighbors that we have humbly accepted the fact that we can’t govern ourselves without our own bias, and are then discovering (as the Puritans had wisely discovered), that we must relinquish any of our previously thought law writing talents right back to the Father, in order to properly gain the Father’s guidance, protection, and wisdom, including how His Bible brilliantly even covers issues so minor that a top-heavy “government” is not even remotely needed, which would not only open up many new areas of freedom, but would even leave us tons of leftover sweat equity as well!

What first got me into this fight years ago, was painfully seeking some inner sense of justice for the upside-down mess of immorality in our land that had largely destroyed my family, where early on in that resulting struggle to find the real truth of what was tearing our American families to pieces, I had thought (and just as they had wanted us to think) that the boogey-man was communism, sneaking its ugly head into our once biblical nation. I had then, as many others had done, attempted to strengthen the “lesser of two evils” side of the two-party illusion system that I was trained was our hero of law and justice, where after many years of banging my head against that legislative brick wall of man-made “decoys”, I found that there were amazingly deeper layers to this charade.

And although 9-11 was a very tragic event for our nation, it was nonetheless so well botched by the criminal cabal behind it, that it became a true blessing in disguise for those of us who were watching with a “love for the truth”, as it became a much needed “trumpet and alarm” (see Zephaniah 1:16) that would send a complacent America a much needed slap in the face in helping them to see the deeper evils that had, all along, been working as a cancer within us, not as any fabricated outside terror threat as they wanted us to believe.

The overall picture of what I now see is so simple that even a child can clearly understand it all. But just as re-learning the Father’s original biblical calendar after having been raised on the papal Gregorian calendar our whole lives, the problem does not lie so much in learning the correct, true system (as the correct truth is usually very simple), but in un-learning the complex false system of lies that they had massively constructed around us like a foreboding barbed-wire fence.

The more we are learning about these wicked people, the more we are understanding that they have accomplished this by also using a specific form of deception that the Bible seems to intimate as “metonymy”, or “wordcraft” (when describing what was seemingly also taking place with the wicked world of Noah’s day). Today some might more readily understand this trickery under a more common expression: “legalese”. The trick is in secretly operating under a two-language system (that had morphed from the dark ages church following how Latin was used for the elite to “speak in code” if you will), where only the higher levels of the church/state bedfellows had the secret keys / deeper wording, and the peasants were left to wonder why their slightly less informative system of understanding was not gaining any ground for them in the courts, churches, business world, etc.

It is now of a certainty for those like myself that the U.S Constitution and other global documents were basically written under this ‘dual language’ ruse to temporarily ‘contain the slaves’, being desperate to keep us as far as can be from the biblical system that the Reformers and Puritans were following again (that would have surely spread and have brought back that “tyrant-pummeling God” to crush them). Such documents were therefore written to be ‘disposable’, never officially recognized by the super elite who instead observed the papal bulls of this Vatican-headquartered “bully” system. We can also now more readily see how the very rich might bring only the most trusted criminal minds into their inner secret society circles as accomplices to achieve this global enslavement of the “willfully ignorant” (that is, so long as they were kept willfully ignorant, content enough to not want to do something so annoying and tedious as study this complex mess out for themselves and rediscover that dreaded Bible). “So”, the bullies think, “while you’re making sure that the slaves are fully intimidated that you’ll ‘break a kneecap or two’ should they complain or squeal on you, you then at the same time send a nicer of your government thugs to their house to play the other side of this ‘benevolent gracious government god’ and simultaneously keep them in welfare, food stamps, beer, pizza and football, and they’ll never leave the couch to see what is going on outside, even if there’s a ten-foot high fence slowly being erected all around them.”

Satan and his bullies are almost completely in power this time.
(or so they think...)

Chapter 10

Right around the corner: All bullies and evil people ...gone forever!

So to summarize our more recent history after what we have hopefully better illustrated for you here, consider this scenario:

Tyranny was at a point of intolerable conditions in dark ages Europe when men began to not only better see the evil motives of the church/state system of Rome, but had also realized that this oppressive system was not worth sticking around for in a time when new windows of opportunity were opening up for those who would dare to begin a new world in the Americas under the Father's real Biblical law and justice system. The Guttenberg press and the navigational sextant were miraculous innovations that contributed respectively to both the spread of wisdom around the world and the spread of the afflicted across great oceanic spans, where Rome's 'slaves' were escaping in such great numbers that there was nothing that Rome or its newly-spreading "crown" franchises could physically do about it at the time. (You can't burn people at the stake when you can't catch them.)

But rather than further punish the masses with any form of force that would be futile (thus sending even more of their slaves running to the new wide open spaces), Rome opted to begin a campaign to go into a long term damage control mode where they would hope to come out on the other side of this retreat and appear to have turned over a new leaf of sudden goodness towards mankind, doing so only on the surface of course to merely try and regain the trust of their lost peasant class to some degree until they could more solidly command respect again through force as they are attempting to put the finishing touches on this beast today.

This took hundreds of years of regrouping, where they would rewrite as much history as they could progressively get away with, thereby pulling more and more wool over the eyes of another deceived generation, where the bullies would once more put brute force aside for a while and become absolute masters at the art of dressing themselves as sheep, slowly taking over all of the free world's crucial institutions through their Jesuits and other related secret society sub-divisions, including the infiltration of all government power seats and church pulpits.

I can relate to how the Puritans had lost control in the 1700's, as the "too serious" Puritans had America stolen out from under them, not unlike how this preacher had a ministry division wrestled away from him some years back, where professing Christians (by appealing to everyone's trust under consensus, physical survival, etc, not Scripture) had outnumbered the preacher's original dream of a serious Bible-based truth outreach center, even eventually ousting him from his own brainchild because he was "too serious about the God parts". What was therefore hoped to be a center restoring our faith in YHWH's "perfect law of liberty" in our nation was soon, by "democratic (mob) rule", taken over and slowly transformed into a humanist 'freedom movement' war room of sorts, playing right into the hands of the elite, idolizing the elite's own laws.

The underlying nature of a similar humanist-focused 'freedom group' (our famed "founding fathers") and their web of God-denying secret societies was not well known back in the times of the Puritans (outside of finding an occasional witch's coven here and there), where even the Puritans with their "no king But King Jesus" motto were largely unaware that there was such a massive overarching plan to undermine their more serious biblical efforts, where just as had happened to me, those with materialistic 'here and now' humanist/secular-type goals and motives began to 'outreach' and out-fund the Puritan voices in America. Just 150 years after Plymouth rock, an already lukewarm nation ignored the few biblical voices like Patrick Henry and instead ratified the humanist documents that mocked God's authority over us, slowly silencing the last cries of the more biblically educated Puritans.

But this very same dark ages "beast" is now back, and although starting to crumble itself, it is still intimidating the unsaved, thus polarizing the masses. Folks are now taking sides of either a very small group of those truly seeking biblical righteousness, or the side of a much larger consortium looking at humanist based rebellion. Either way one chooses, it will soon be apparent that a confrontation of biblical proportions is on the very near horizon where mankind will be at his greatest crossroads, and the Father is nearing the end of His patience but yet sitting back allowing us to position ourselves into either of the two camps (there will be no neutral ground, no matter how hard the billions of fearful moderates might click their heels together and wish for this).

One camp (the unsaved; consisting of two parts, see Zechariah 13:8, 9) are set aside to die. The other camp, albeit a very tiny one, will be the remnant that will not only survive the coming chaos between the other two, but will be so victorious that they will literally “inherit the kingdoms of the earth”, ourselves perhaps finishing what the Puritans had nearly done (had they too known about the Illuminati, the Jesuits, and what was really in those documents). The later Puritans had lost much of the vigilance of their predecessors, who had been literal victims of tyranny and therefore knew first hand that the papacy was not just the seat of antichrist but also the very seat of tyranny! (NOTE: Catholics were resultantly not allowed on our shores till the “Act of Toleration” of 1641). Had they maintained biblical purity, continuing the “perfecting of holiness in the fear of God”, the protections from the Father would have remained impenetrable and far too great for the wicked to have infiltrated them again as they had. Yet they did not take the “be ye not deceived” theme of the New Testament serious enough, and here we are again, a nation of biblical compromisers (at best) facing what might soon be a modern-day dark ages manslaughterer.

Yet as we see the prophecies unfolding, we also see that this wicked beast system of Babylon is about to take a very hard and crushing blow under the wrath of the Almighty for the benefit of those few of us who had “waited on Him” and had “kept the commandments of God, and the faith of Yeshua”, till He came (ref. Rev. 14:12).

The stone cut out of the mountain without hands will crush this wicked kingdom, as the “more serious” saints will begin to take over and inherit these kingdoms of the earth as we’re called to do:

And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain [kingdom] of YHWH's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it. —Isaiah 2:2

This suggests that a last remnant preaches and receives a kingdom (government) of God and as the increasing plagues fall harder and harder on both the wicked and the lukewarm, such wrath-inviting people will no longer be very welcome in the awakening nations, and with Yeshua arriving to be our King of kings, tyranny will soon become a thing of the past as well, where we will beat our swords into plowshares. What a wonderful thought, eh?

But in the meantime we must do our best to show believers who yet call us “conspiracy theorists”, that the Bible warned of such a time:

“There is a conspiracy of her prophets in the midst thereof, like a roaring lion ravening the prey; they have devoured souls; they have taken the treasure and precious things; they have made her many widows in the midst thereof. Her priests have violated my law, and have profaned mine holy things: they have put no difference between the holy and profane, neither have they shewed difference between the unclean and the clean, and have hid their eyes from my sabbaths, and I am profaned among them. Her princes in the midst thereof are like wolves ravening the prey, to shed blood, and to destroy souls, to get dishonest gain. And her prophets have daubed them with untempered mortar, seeing vanity, and divining lies unto them, saying, Thus saith YHWH, when YHWH hath not spoken. The people of the land have used oppression, and exercised robbery, and have vexed the poor and needy: yea, they have oppressed the stranger wrongfully. And I sought for a man among them, that should make up the hedge, and stand in the gap before me for the land, that I should not destroy it: but I found none. Therefore have I poured out mine indignation upon them; I have consumed them with the fire of my wrath: their own way have I recompensed upon their heads, saith YHWH.”

—Ezekiel 22:25-31

With so many endless biblical warnings on this, how then could the elite have truly gotten a once biblical America to agree that their man-devised ways could work any better than the Father's and somehow give us a "more perfect" union than what YHWH's perfection could have given us?

In conclusion, I suppose its because we are just as guilty as the unbiblical elite are, in that we've also been doing things our own way and not "preaching the kingdom of YHWH" as Christ had instructed us, having abandoned our end of any previously protective national covenant with the Father.

Not only do we now need to "speak boldly" against these bullies, but we also need to "debrief" and re-educate our own professing brethren who, through their own willful ignorance, are in many ways helping these bullies through complacency, holding back a much needed reformation to regain Father's mercies for our nation.

Historically, believers suffered painful deaths rather than offer just a tiny pinch of incense unto Caesar. Sadly, many Christians today are reluctant to even get up off their couch to show any real support for God's true executive majesty. Which will YHWH bless come judgment day, let alone in our near future?

If we don't start putting what's left of our blood, sweat, and tears into a true advancing of the Father's kingdom for His glory, the present kingdom will only continue to advance on us, taking what's left of our blood sweat and tears for their glory. The choice is ours.

—Dwaine Moore

The law of YHWH is perfect, converting the soul: the testimony of YHWH is sure, making wise the simple. The statutes of YHWH are right, rejoicing the heart: the commandment of YHWH is pure, enlightening the eyes. The fear of YHWH is clean, enduring for ever: the judgments of YHWH are true and righteous altogether. More to be desired are they than gold, yea, than much fine gold: sweeter also than honey and the honeycomb.

—Psalm 19:7-10
