

My response to man's ways of expecting to fix the world without YHWH:

I am increasingly asked in these times to give my thoughts on the various ideas from some great minds that are said to be making history in saving our nation, yet all are doing so without seeking true counsel of the Father, and are often void of even the slightest word of honor towards Him as well.

And they then will wonder every single time when I have to tell them that I believe that these plans will fail (and it usually does some odd months or years later), as they don't "get it" no matter how I try to explain it to them. But here's how you get it, for those who might want to try again, as it is a spiritual authority issue, not a political, military, or socio-economic one, etc.:

Most countries world-wide have a political structure, constitution, or equivalent document of some kind, shape or form that (supposedly) puts their public servants under their command, and thereby under their own custom-drafted, often complicated and globally interconnected law systems, that such people basically "decree" into law themselves. But there is curiously no enforcement power behind any of these more recently popular governments in our age lately, and the resulting, rapidly-spreading tyrannical phenomenon we now see, is still growing and even becoming a terrifying global epidemic.

Here's the problem:

We are angering a Holy God with our "We the People" humanist arrogance, where we feel that "we" can fix this global tyranny problem by working above Him, not being yet able to admit to the glaring fact that this is a period of never-before seen massive judgment and wrath against all of mankind in the first place, and... coming first and foremost to punish a wicked, complacent, hypocritical church.

Here's the Solution:

Stop arrogantly striving to create any unbiblical system that would in any way put "We the People" on any higher pedestal above our Creator, YHWH, and get back to the Bible through repentance.

Rocket science ?

Yes, its so complicated that the "We the People" lukewarm believers will never get it, nor the "We the People" agnostics, nor the "We the People" atheists, nor the "We the People" Buddhists, nor the "We the People" Catholics, nor the "We the People" Hari Krishnas, nor the "We the People" Muslims, nor the "We the People" 501c3 Denominations, nor the "We the People" Pagans, nor the "We the People" Judaists, nor the "We the People" Zoroastrianists, nor the "We the People" Scientologists, nor the "We the People" Jehovah's Witnesses, nor the "We the People" Mormons, nor the "We the People" Kabbalists, nor the "We the People" Taoists, nor the "We the People" Hindus...

...and thousands of other splinter group "We the People" Bible-distant religions who now have unanimously formed a 'confederation'* religion called, "We the People", doing so via all of their concurring self-approvals that for the first time in earth's history puts man on a global throne high above YHWH (humanism; the worship of man). They then wonder why Father seems to be so angry.

Many of these groups have some really great minds and some amazingly good ideas, but without genuinely putting their hearts in the Father's hands, and His Law at the forefront, to unashamedly give Him the glory, they are hopelessly sending their idea off to fade into the sunset even before it starts.

It's time to repent of this idolatry my friends. Its not a complicated solution, but it is however, the most fearful solution, being that it is the only solution that a perverse generation hates.
