

Which should we more wisely choose for ourselves? A preacher's tearful warnings? ...or YHWH's judgment?

To my entire base, and to put this out in the open for all who may find that they may also have need of deeper thought on this issue as a help for us, and regardless of which side you may be on, it comes of my love in wanting to see a warning heeded, in order that all might avoid a fate much worse than my warnings on judgment day, I thank you all in advance for hearing this one out for the children's sakes.

No matter where I look, and no matter where I turn my ears to someone who wants my attention, there is almost never any talk about the heavenly Father's instructions on stopping His wrath. And I mean pretty much never. Its always about how evil "they are".

The content on every newscast, television "program" or internet article, video or blog, is always focused on the troubles we are up against, not the reason why we are suffering them or how we ourselves could have stopped them long ago if we were being honest with ourselves.

The entire "truth movement", sadly including especially a good number of churches and timid remnants, are crying about how the leadership and media is lying to us all, when in fact, many of us are lying to ourselves even more than they are, otherwise this wrath would have never even come upon us.

Everyone is pointing fingers of hellfire and damnation at the ruling elite as if they are satan's undeserved offensive forces coming against us "good people", when all along we have been false witnesses to one another for decades, thus bringing this torment upon ourselves unlike any other time in man's history.

Although I've been very much unappreciated (to put it mildly) for well over twenty years now in many routine ways, I have recently experienced a spike in people who are upset with me, claiming that I am being too strict, too serious, too fanatical, or even "impossible to work with", while those same people are still, at the same time, voluntarily paying and encouraging this beast to continue to do these things to us.

Yes, you read that right, these people are paying and encouraging the beast to torment and slaughter us, and yet they complain about those of us who, following YHWH's "rescue instructions" have otherwise trustingly stopped supporting Caesar long ago, patiently waiting for other true believers to follow suit and "switch sides" with us.

We are lying to one another when we remain in their system and tell others that we are all good people. We are the biggest liars in being hypocritical supporters of this evil system, thus making us the real "paymasters" of these criminally minded people, not unlike how one might hire a hit man to assassinate an unwanted neighbor.

Yes, when we are voting for one of their criminals instead of staying out of such idolatrous "dens of thieves" we are encouraging them to do their evil deeds to our neighbors. When we voluntarily give them our hard earned money as a retirement investment, we are encouraging them to take even more liberties from our neighbors. When we sign other adherence contracts that, when such numbers become a majority, are then used as a weapon of persecution against those neighbors who refused to take part (from things such as driver's licenses and gun registrations, on down to fishing and hunting licenses, etc), we are encouraging these control freaks to create tighter and tighter ways to further wrap those chains around our neighbors who dont want such oppressive gods over us.

So each time we cry about how bad things are getting and we are still "investing" in Caesar's system, abiding by Caesar's clearly unbiblical laws that oppress our neighbors, and now even wearing his masks of obedience, we are going against a loving God's countless instruction to not oppress one another, thus also keeping that mighty

God from coming to the rescue of our land, on top of our encouraging Caesar to torment and kill off our neighbors.

I prayed again this morning that I will find the continued strength to remain tough on sin, while soft in His love with those who are working on reforming their own lives to those ways of love.

But for those who are yet offering aid and comfort to the enemy (patting others on the back who are also supporting Caesar) and supporting these hit men and their wicked system of government, while at the same time are only rebuking those of us who are trying to re-install a biblical government for us, I have a fading patience these days. I am not as "dainty" with those folks no, especially now that so many children are literally being tortured and killed as the result of a nation who can no longer trust their God to take care of them nor would trust that His laws actually keep such tyrannies and satanists away from such nations who obey those laws.

I cannot sugar coat the way these people are lying to one another that they are good people while they give all their tithes and offerings to the hit men who are killing millions worldwide as they sit in their comfy homes, cars, and travel freedoms, while we are increasingly persecuted and unsupported in trying to restore YHWH's mercies to this nation.

There have been nearly a dozen people in just the last week, beating up on me for my merely trying to do my job in waking us up to our own sins against a holy God and our neighbors.

The media couldn't have even begun to lie to us until we began to lie to each other first.

Those who are focused on pointing fingers at the evils of the elite, while they are rewarding them with their sweat equity and loyalties at the same time, are going to face a much tougher disciplinarian than this preacher on judgment day. My warnings have been VERY lovingly sent all these years. This tougher email is sent in my defense of the countless, voiceless babies and children who are suffering worldwide because of all the adults who wont repent and trust their God, who wont stand boldly with their Savior in rebuking an entire planet of hypocrites who are paying satan's agents to do this to their children and grandchildren. I will not have sympathy for such people, especially after all my decades of loving warnings now.

The end times command to "come out from among them and be separate" is a very serious last warning from YHWH, Himself having also given the same loving warning to not be deceived and thereby unequally yoked with unbelievers and their systems in the first place.

Again, this is not directed at those of you who are genuinely working in righteous directions with us in such biblically instructed reforms, but those who may feel their own heart strings tugging on them in having been detracting from our better efforts in educating people on these issues here.

If some of you still want to hate me for trying to get you to open your eyes to your own lack of trust in this God (where we could have perhaps even avoided any further pain by now), then you have a free will to remain as bitter and resentful as you like and take it up with the King when He arrives. I will stand for the innocent and those who are truly working with us to reform this land back to YHWH's trust. These children dont deserve what we are doing to them, and I can no longer play footsie with those who are yet siding with satan in helping him do this to all these innocent children.

Children are suffering like never before on this planet, and I can no longer treat the Caesar supporters as if they are a part of the solution, when they are yet stubbornly or fearfully staying with Caesar in the stands of the coliseum while so many more children are now being thrown onto the tarmac below and used in escalating torments with these masks and separation heartbreaks, not to mention the growing satanic rituals and sex trafficking torments as they are. If you hate my message then you are free to stay away from me, stay with any warm and fuzzy preacher that is more to your liking, and file a grievance with my Boss on judgment day.

Speaking truth in love, those around us who are not doing anything to help advance YHWH's literal governance over us, but are still helping Caesar's with His, have no one to blame for all of this but themselves, and should quit complaining about the paddling they are getting from the cruel gods that they have chosen to trust in and support.

How can one sugar coat something like this? Is truth not to be shared as truth? ...especially in such times where so many innocent children are suffering?

You can start helping us, or keep crying. But if you will excuse me, I have work to do amidst my own issues of being persecuted much more than most of you. So if you can't stand with us in helping us, nor want my biblical recommendations, then please at least let me do my job in teaching those who are yet trying to trust the Father for us all, sound fair?

With all love to those who are supporting YHWH's kingdom, not Caesar's,

"For there are many unruly and vain talkers and deceivers, specially they of the circumcision [those claiming to be of YHWH] whose mouths must be stopped, who subvert whole houses, teaching [spreading] things which they ought not, for filthy lucre's sake [for their own continued comforts]. Wherefore rebuke them sharply, that they may be sound in the faith" -Titus 1:13

"Them that sin rebuke before all, that others may also fear." - 1 Timothy 5:20
